MACKENZIE RECOGNIZES NEW ASSOCIATE

Seattle, Washington – Rich Mitchell, Managing Principal at Mackenzie, announces the recognition of Chauncey Drinon as an associate. “Chauncey has a keen eye for detail, and is a very talented designer that greatly contributes to our Architecture Department through his successful articulation of design,” said Mitchell. “He is a valued asset to Mackenzie and our clients, and we’re proud to have him on our team.”

Drinon joined Mackenzie in 2015 as an architectural designer and has nearly a decade of design experience. His design skills are apparent in the newly-constructed Bainbridge Island Fire Stations 21 and 22, and various projects with the Port of Seattle. “I am pleased and humbled to receive this recognition, and grateful for the opportunities Mackenzie has afforded me,” said Drinon. “I know my success is owed to the amazing team that surrounds me: their energy, passion, and friendship continues to inspire me every day.” Drinon carries a Master of Architecture from Washington State University.
